A membership designed for real shooting habits

JW Shooting Range memberships provide predictable monthly value while preserving the simple booking model our shooters already know: you book a range for a period of time, not a place per person. Choose the tier that matches how often—and when—you normally shoot.

ONE RANGE. ONE HOURLY BOOKING. Your private booking covers the designated range for the booked time. You may bring private companions at no additional range fee, provided the member is present and every shooter completes the required register and indemnity.

KEY DATES Individual memberships are available from 1 August 2026. The standard non-member range-hire rate remains R250 per range per hour until 30 September 2026 and increases to R300 per range per hour from 1 October 2026.

What every membership includes

- A 12-month membership term with a defined monthly range-hour allowance.
- Access to the 20 m, 100 m and 200 m ranges, subject to availability and the suitability of the firearm and activity.
- Unused range-hour credits that remain valid for 90 calendar days from allocation.
- The ability to bring private companions during the member's booking without an additional per-person range charge.
- The option to pay annually and receive one month free.
- Access to pensioner pricing where the applicant qualifies.

Your monthly credits

Bronze and Silver operate on weekday-hour credits. One weekday hour uses one credit; one weekend or public-holiday hour uses two credits. Gold and Platinum credits are used hour-for-hour on any operating day.

SILVER EXAMPLE A Silver member starts with 10 credits. Four weekday hours use 4 credits and two weekend hours use another 4 credits, leaving 2 credits—enough for two weekday hours or one weekend hour.

Save with annual payment

Members who pay the full membership fee upfront are charged for 11 months and receive the 12th month free. The once-off R500 joining and administration fee remains payable.

How credits, rollover and bookings work

Ninety-day validity

Every monthly allocation remains available for 90 calendar days from the date it is allocated. Credits are used on a first-in, first-out basis, meaning the oldest valid credits are deducted first. Any remaining credits expire automatically once their 90-day validity period ends.

WHY ROLLOVER MATTERS A holiday, illness or unusually busy month does not automatically mean losing the benefit you paid for. The 90-day limit keeps the system fair while preventing hours from accumulating indefinitely.

Important credit rules

- Range-hour credits have no cash value and may not be sold, transferred or exchanged.
- The member must be present throughout any booking made using their membership credits.
- Credits apply to one designated range for the booked period. Separate or simultaneous range bookings are deducted separately.
- All bookings remain subject to range availability, operating hours, safety requirements and suitability of the planned activity.
- Accumulated credits do not guarantee peak-time, weekend or consecutive availability.
- Complimentary monthly targets do not roll over and expire at the end of the applicable benefit month.
- Equipment and braai benefits remain subject to availability and reasonable use.

Bringing other shooters

JW charges private range use by time rather than per shooter. A member may therefore bring a partner, family member or friends during their booking without an additional per-person range fee, up to the amount of additional shooters stipulated in the membership tier. Every shooter must still sign in, accept the indemnity, follow staff instructions and comply with the range rules.

Commercial instruction, security-company training, organised training groups and unusually large private groups are not automatically covered by an individual membership and must be arranged with JW Shooting Range in advance.
